Batopin uses Google Analytics cookies to analyse use of its website. To protect your personal data, we have concluded a processor agreement with Google Analytics. This allows Batopin to improve its services based on user feedback.

Hotjar uses cookies and other technologies to collect data about the behaviour of our users and their devices. These data include the device's IP address (collected and stored only in anonymised form), screen size, device type (unique device IDs), browser information, geographic location (country only) and the preferred language for displaying our website.
